

Research Nurses

Illingworth Research Group are looking to recruit research nurses from all backgrounds who are interested in exciting and diverse full or part time role in research.

The role will involve nurses working as part of a wider team to visit patients at sites or in the homecare setting, ensuring their safety whilst carrying out study-related procedures.

All candidates must possess a nursing qualification, be NMC registered and have good venepuncture skills. GCP preferable, but not essential.

A reasonable level of computer literacy with a strong sense of responsibility. Candidates should also have excellent planning and communication skills.

Illingworth Research Group have many ongoing and new projects taking place throughout the UK and Australia. Candidates can be based anywhere but must be willing to travel.

We are particularly keen to hear from research nurses in the London area and Ireland where we have a high number of ongoing projects.

Illingworth Research Group offer competitive rates of pay and fantastic team support, as well as great development and training opportunities.
